

Episode 5: Teamwork

The school field day was this afternoon and the students from SCHOOL were getting ready for the big Tug-O-War contest. In room NUMBER Sam was telling everyone that his class was the ADJECTIVE class and they were going to win! This made Carrie so NEGATIVE FEELING because she was from room NUMBER and the kids in her class were not good at Tug-O-War and would rather play BOARD GAME. It was recess time and the teams were called to the playground. Carrie's class wore COLOR shirts and Sam's class wore COLOR. It was time for the game and Sam was yelling at his team, "You better win!" This made his team feel NEGATIVE FEELING. The teacher blew the NOUN and the Tug-o-war game was underway. He kept yelling ADJECTIVE words at his team. Carrie on the other hand, continued to encourage her team and together they VERB and yelled "Pull!" Slowly but surely the flag moved closer and closer to Carrie's team. With one last tug, Carrie's team pulled the COLOR flag over the finish line. The class had won! They all shouted, "EXCLAMATION!" By working together, they pulled Sam and his ADJECTIVE class over the finish line. The teacher awarded Carrie and her class a golden NOUN for their victory. Carrie will always remember the day she showed Sam how to be a (n) ADJECTIVE teammate and a (n) ADJECTIVE friend.
